ABOUT SAM JONES' PRIVATE LIFE.

TWO VERY IMPRESSIVE SCENES OF HIS INFLUENCE AND LOVE.

Some ten years ago Sam Jones made up his mind that he would have to change his base of operations and leave Cartersville. His burdens had become very great by reason of the large number of people in Cartersville and in the county who were depending on his generosity. They waylaid him at the train when he was expected to arrive; they waylaid him on his way to the train; they waylaid him at his home; so he decided to make a move. He went over to Marietta and bought a ten thousand dollar home and paid two thousand down to secure the trade. He went home and told his wife that when he returned from his next evangelistic trip she must be ready to make the move.

In the meantime, the news of his removal got out in Cartersville, and upon Sam's return home, his wife met him at the door of his home and said: "Husband, the house is full of people. The parlor is full of white people and the dining room is full of negroes. They are all here to protest against your leaving Cartersville. You would better go right in and see them." So Sam went into the parlor. The bankers and merchants and teachers and preachers and lawyers and doctors and principal citizens were all there. One of them, as spokesman, said in substance: "Mr. Jones, we have come to enter our protest against your leaving Cartersville. You belong to us. You have spent your life here and we all love you, and we can't stand your leaving us. We feel that you ought not to go, but should spend your remaining days among us." Sam thanked them all and dismissed the meeting. He then repaired to the dining room, where he found the leading negroes—merchants, teachers, preachers and laborers. The leading negro said in substance: "Mr. Jones, we don't know whether you care much about us niggers, but before the Lord, we all love you. There is not a nigger in this county that would harm a hair on the head of one of your family; there is not a nigger in this county but would set up all night with his musket and guard your home from harm if he knew it was threatened; there is not a nigger in this county what knows you but loves you. You've been a father to us and our best friend. Many of us were converted in your tabernacle meetings and we owe everything to you. We do hate to see you leave Cartersville. It will be hard on us poor niggers, if you leave us. Mr. Jones, if you must go and will go, we will try to bear it as well as we can, but we have come to beg you for the Lord's sake, if you will go, not to take your wife with you. Mr. Jones, she is the guardian angel of this community. If there is any poor white people or any poor niggers in trouble, she is there. She is the ministering angel. For the Lord's sake, leave her with us if you must go."

Sam sat down and cried like a boy and the negroes cried with him. Finally, when he could control his emotion, he said, "Niggers, let's pray!" They all fell on their knees and prayed and as they rose Sam said, "Niggers, I ain't gwine. I'll stay right here in Cartersville till I go to heaven."

He was well loved in his home town. Everybody knew that how ever hard the blows he'd strike for the homes of the people, for civic righteousness and for God, they knew he was great-hearted and as loving as a little child.

SCENE TWO.

Some years ago Sam Jones held a meeting with the leading Methodist church of Little Rock. In his characteristic style, he went for the fashion and the frivolity and the worldliness of the "sawdust folks," many of whom were in this church. They were much scandalized and offended as folks of that class often were with his denunciations of their doings. Some two or more years thereafter Sam was to hold a union meeting there and some of the "principalist brethren" went to their young pastor and said, "Pastor, are you going into the Jones meeting?" "Yes," said he, "I am. Why do you ask?" "Why," said they, "when Mr. Jones was here before he scandalized us before this community and held us up to ridicule, and we can't stand for such treatment. We have come to ask you not to go into that meeting. You are a promising young man, and you are very popular with this people and it will injure your usefulness if you go against their feelings in this matter. We wish you would not do it." The young man said, "I'll tell you what I'll do. You all meet me in my study tomorrow night and I'll give you my reasons for believing I should go into the Jones meeting for all I am worth, and after I've told you, if you still feel as you do, I will not do it."

They agreed and the next night they were all on hand. The young preacher said, "Years ago my father, a Methodist circuit rider, died suddenly in Georgia and left my mother with six children and nothing in the world except the pittance the conference provided for the widow and the orphans. My mother went to the country town and found that she could get a house for $1,500, and by taking boarders she might be able to keep her children with her and educate and raise them until they were old enough to help. I was a lad of fourteen. But where to get fifteen hundred dollars mother did not know. Finally she wrote to Brother Sam Jones, whom she knew was my father's friend, and asked him if he could not put her in the way of borrowing the money on long time till she could pay it gradually. The mail soon brought a letter from Brother Jones enclosing his personal check for fifteen hundred dollars as a gift to my mother. Thus, she was able to keep her family together and when I wanted to study for the ministry Brother Jones became my father and saw me through college. Now, if you think I ought to go back on a man of God like that, you all say so."

They all hung their heads! At heart they were good men. The tears began to fill their eyes and finally the leading brother who had been most prominent in his opposition to Sam said, "Let us all pray." They fell on their knees and their hearts were broken up. When they arose they all took the young pastor by the hand and said, "Go into the Jones meeting, pastor, and we will back you for all we are worth." And they did.—A. W. Lamar in Baptist Courier, November 15th.

A Preacher Pleads Guilty.

Spartanburg, Nov. 24.—Rev. Doole Davis, a holiness preacher, pleaded guilty to a charge of obtaining goods under a false pretense and was sentenced to serve one year on the chain gang and pay a fine of one hundred dollars. Several months ago Davis hired a horse and buggy from the stable at Clifton, saying he wanted to drive over to see relatives at Cowpens. Instead he went to North Carolina where he disposed of the team. He was arrested and brought back to this county. When arraigned to-day he pleaded guilty to the charge and received sentence with bowed head.

We have secured the agency for Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup, the new laxative that makes the liver lively, purifies the breath, cures headache and regulates the digestive organs. Cures chronic constipation. Ask us about it. J. W. Bell.

Robbing Yourself

That is just what you are doing when you fail to get regular and sufficient sleep. Your body requires this unconscious period for repair work; without it your nerve energy becomes exhausted, and you are tired, worn-out, nervous, excitable; have headache, neuralgia, indigestion, poor appetite, or other ailments caused by a lack of nerve force. Make it your business to sleep. If you are restless, take Dr. Miles' Nervine; it soothes and strengthens the nerves, and brings sweet, refreshing, life-giving sleep, and gives the organs power to work naturally. Try it to-day.

"I had a severe spell of fever, which left me in a very weak condition and very nervous. I had severe spells of headache and neuralgia, and could sleep but very little. Every day that was made to recover my strength was of no avail until I began taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. After I commenced taking the Nervine my sleep was profound and restful, and the pains in my head, as well as the neuralgia pains, left me to a certain extent and I gradually bettered myself." MRS. E. E. GILBERTSON, 821 Beryl Ave., Belvidere, Ill.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the medicine is genuine. If it fails, he will refund your money. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Open Communion is Growing.

Rev. C. C. Brown, D. D., of Sumter, one of the most useful men in the Baptist ministry in the South, has written for The Baptist Courier an article on "The Tendency of the Times." In this article Dr. Brown intimates that "open communion" is growing in favor with the Baptists. The editor of The Courier, while disagreeing with Dr. Brown, writes of a condition which exists in nearly all denominations with reference to the sacraments:

"We believe that the Lord's Supper should be observed more frequently than it is by many of our churches. Very few observe it once a month. Some observe it every two months, or once a quarter. Many of the country churches celebrate it twice a year, and we have known churches that observe it only once a year. It will be well for our pastors to call attention of their churches to this, and especially in the country churches, where so many of the Baptists begin their Christian life. If it becomes a matter of indifference in the early years of the church member's experience it will follow them into after years."

Greenville Out of Coal.

Greenville, Nov. 17.—The coal situation in Greenville is again becoming alarming. The supply is being exhausted and the trains are not bringing in many cars. Local agents are offering for sale of soft coal from $6.50 a ton to $8.50 or $9. Local dealers are now receiving a few cars which were contracted for in July for October delivery.

Of Interest To Women.

To such women as are not seriously out of health, but who have exacting duties to perform, either in the way of household cares or in social duties and functions which seriously tax their strength, as well as to nursing mothers, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has proved a most valuable supporting tonic and invigorating nerve. By its timely use, much serious sickness and suffering may be avoided. The operating table and the surgeon's knife, would, it is believed, seldom have to be employed if this most valuable woman's remedy were resorted to in good time. The "Favorite Prescription" has proven a great boon to expectant mothers by preparing the system for the coming of baby, thereby rendering childbirth safe, easy, and almost painless.

Bear in mind, please that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is not a secret or patent medicine, against which the most intelligent people are quite naturally averse, because of the uncertainty as to their composition and harmless character, but it is a MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, a full list of all its ingredients being printed, in plain English, on every bottle wrapper. An examination of this list of ingredients will disclose the fact that it is non-alcoholic in its composition, chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine taking the place of the commonly used alcohol, in its make-up. In this connection it may not be out of place to state that the "Favorite Prescription" of Dr. Pierce is the only medicine put up for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, and sold through druggists, all the ingredients of which have the unanimous endorsement of all the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice, and that too as remedies for the ailments for which "Favorite Prescription" is recommended.

A little book of these endorsements will be sent to any address, post-paid, and absolutely free if you request same by postal card, or letter, of Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. Easy to take as candy.

Paul M. Brice Dead.

Columbia, November 22.—Paul M. Brice, for the past several years editor of the Columbia Record, died of cancer of the tongue yesterday at his home in Winnsboro, where he was taken on Monday, after many months of most acute suffering. He was 42 years old and unmarried.

Paul Brice was one of the gentlest and kindest, as well as one of the most courageous and able men, that ever graced South Carolina journalism, and withal a most lovable man. He was without any of the forms of fear, clean, strong and pure because it was his nature to be that way. He was scrupulously conscientious with his own work, but always painstaking and patient with those under him. Every South Carolina newspaper man who knew him loved and admired Paul Brice, as did everybody else who knew him. He was a great favorite here in Columbia, where he was known best.

A cold taken at this time of the year is generally hard to get rid of, but it will not be able to withstand Bee's Laxative Honey and Tar. That will cure all colds, coughs, croup, whooping cough, etc., by driving them out through the bowels. If you have a cold, try it and if not cured get your money back. No opiates. Sold by Walhalla Drug Co.

Oil Mill Shuts Down.

Elberton, Ga., Nov. 17.—The Elberton Oil Mill has been shut down this week on account of lack of seed. The farmers do not seem more anxious to sell their seed at 65 cents per hundred than they are to sell their cotton for less than ten cents per pound.
